Algerian Civil War (1990 - 1998)

The conflict has involved secularist and Islamic political forces. After the Front Islamique du Salut (FIS) won local councils and the first round of national elections in 1990 and 1991 respectively, the ruling state party, Front Libération National (FLN) dissolved Algeria's parliament and suspended the constitution and the army council took over the reins of government. After protests by FIS, the military regime imposed a state of emergency, effectively triggering off a bloody civil war as Islamist militias rose in opposition. The FIS split, and the breakaway Groupe Islamique Armé (GIA) became known for some of the most violent anti-government actors. Violence peaked in 1995 after the military candidate won in presidential elections. Heavily pressured by the military, FIS-loyalists declared a ceasefire in 1997 and after presidential elections in 1999, President Abdelaziz Bouteflika enacted a new amnesty law, which saw the number of insurgents shrink dramatically. By 2002, the GIA was effectively beaten militarily, however, various small Islamist groups continue to operate in the region.

Art. 7. - A Probation Committee in the territorial jurisdiction of each Wilaya is hereby established.

Art 8. - The Probation Committee will review the elements of the file that can be completed through investigation and useful information, with a view to pronouncing probation, and implement any measures which the individual subject to probation would be subject to, proposes any measure accompanying the probation to the competent authorities, and designate a probation delegate.

Art 9. - The Probation Committee will meet in any appropriate place chosen by its President within the territorial jurisdiction of the Wilaya. The members of the Committee will be invited meetings by the Chairman of the committee.

Art. 10 - Over the course of the examination of their case by the Probation Committee, the person concerned has the right to be heard personally and/or to be represented by a lawyer of their choice. The date of the meeting devoted to the examination of their record will be notified to the person concerned by any appropriate means.

The person or their adviser may, in addition, request the results of the investigation before the date of the meeting reviewing their case.

Art. 11. - After reviewing the case and hearing, if applicable, from the person concerned and/or their representative, the Probation Committee will deliberate and make its decision.

Art 12.- The decision for probation must state the duration of the probation and the additional measures that the person concerned will be subject to.

It will designate, in addition, a probation delegate specifically responsible for the implementation of probation. The probation delegate will be chosen from among the authorities of the judicial police laid down in Article 15 (2 to 7) of the penal procedure code.

Art. 13. - The decision for probation and will be notified to the concerned party, to the specially designated probation delegate, and to any other competent authority. It will be immediately enforceable.

Art. 14 - The probation delegate will act under the direction of the Attorney General who has territorial jurisdiction on their area, and report, regularly and periodically, the situation of the person under probation.

They will carry out their mission within the framework of the service to which they belong.

Art. 15. - The probation delegate will have the power to convene the person under probation and to ask them for any information or document to control the implementation of the measures established in the probation framework. They must in addition be informed of any change of employment or residence and all movements.

Art. 16. - On the basis of a written report by the probation delegate providing sufficient evidence of the good behaviour of the person concerned and their clear willingness to make amends and towards social reintegration, the Probation Committee may, at any time, alleviate the control measures and the conditions imposed on the person under probation.

Art. 17 - If, during the course of the probation period the person concerned breaks one of the conditions imposed on him, the probation delegate will immediately refer the matter to the Attorney General by way of a detailed report with a view to beginning proceedings to revoke probation from the person concerned.

In this case, procedures laid down in Article 19 of this Decree will be applied.

Art. 18. - One month before the end of the probation period, the probation delegate will write a reasoned report on the behaviour of the person under probation and send it to the Attorney General. The Attorney General will inform the contents of the report to the person concerned to receive any useful observation.

After receiving any potential observations from the person concerned, issued personally or through their guardian and/or advisor, the Attorney General will inform the Probation
