Local agreement properties

Process type Isolated example

Rationale It appears this is a one off arrangement with focus on cessation of violence during the month of Ramadan. Provisions set out for how parties should continue the process following this are vague. It appears that by early July 2019, violence had returned and deaths had occurred in connection to clashes in these same area (see additional reference).

Is there a documented link to a national peace process? No

Link to national process: articulated rationale This is a highly localised agreement between groups of gunmen in a city district of Aden - with brief suggestion from an additional source that security presences may be attempting to resolve the ongoing conflict between these seemingly local non-state actors. Even though listed under witnesses, is a commander of the 3rd infantry and a signature with 'governorate' attached, the rest of this governorate signing is deemed 'illegible'. Therefore, it does not seem there is enough clarity around these signatories and their level of involvement or affiliations, to suggest a link to the national. In such a contested southern city as Aden, there is no guarantee these groups have full or true affinity towards national institutions or the process and it cannot even clearly be ascertained what their stance is on the wider conflict. Participant type	Local armed group
Mediator, facilitator or similar	Mediator or similar referred to
Mediator (references)	The leader of the district who is also a Sheikh, Sheikh Ahmad al-Mihdhar called for talks to be held and while there is no reference to a Mediator in the text, by the description of his role he could be considered as such. There are another two Sheikhs described and signed as witnesses, one of which hosted the agreement signing in his own home. In this case the witnesses can likely also be considered as facilitators.
